Refuge—Then Tragedy

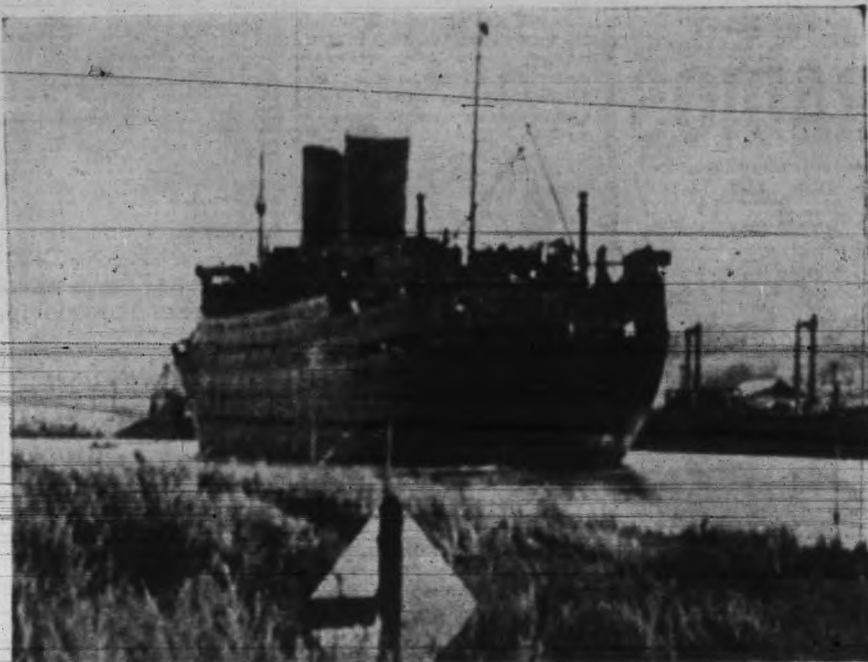

Seven men and two women, seeking shelter from a savage rainstorm at Santa Rosa, Cal., crawled beneath the raised floor of this prune warehouse. Rain weakened the building, and suddenly the floors collapsed under 270-tons of sacked prunes, killing the nine storm refugees. Here their squashed bodies are uncovered.

ment forces triumphed in the United States Senate today by defeating 44 to 41 a bitterly contested effort to require Senate weight champion Joe Louis will enjoy a weight advantage of nearly 13 pounds over Johnny

20% DISCOUNT

Word was received in Victoria
this afternoon that the retail trade bureau of the Chamber of Commerce had advised Seattle
merchants to start discounting Canadian currency and silver 20 per cent tomorrow.

The bureau said the recommendation was because the Canadian Foreign Exchange Control Board
had ruled that after March 30 currency and silver no longer will be redeemable for non-residents
at the fixed rate of conversion.
Discount on Canadian silver today was 12 per cent and on currency 11 per cent.

YACHT ASHORE OFF OAK BAY

The 50-foot pleasure power boat, Mary Ada, from Roche Harbor, ran hard aground this morning on the rocks off the Oak Bay golf links at the foot of Newport Avenue.

Her owner, Paul McMillan, and a party of several persons with him, was forced to abandon the craft on the rocks and wait for a change in tide before she could be taken off.

The boat was passing through the channel between the shore
and the rocks off the golf links
when she hit.
John Bowker of the Oak Bay Boathouse, went around to render all possible assistance but the boat could not be moved before a change in the ebb tide, which was due this afternoon.

The boat assumed a precarious list which caused concern for her safety but late this afternoon
she had not moved.

for return of $8,000. Mar had been employed at the Douglas Street
branch of the Royal Bank here, but is now serving a jail term for embezzling bank moneys.

9 Lose Lives In Ship Crash Off Halifax

By JACK TRACY
HALIFAX (CP)—Nine men
drowned today in Outer Halifax Harbor when their pilot schooner was rammed by an inbound freighter and sent plunging to the bottom within a few minutes.
Three companions aboard the vessel, of which not the slightest trace was found after the midnight collision, were saved. Three others had just put off in a tender to board the freighter. They also were picked up.

Two survivors were taken to a hospital and the others, undoubtedly by the fate of their comrade, went back to work on a relief ship three hours after the sinking.

Those who lost their lives were Pilots Carl and Lorne Dempsey, brothers; James Dempsey, their first cousin; Claude Martin, James Renner, Lionel Pelham,
Lawrence Thomas, cook aboard
the schooner; Matthew Power, engineer, and Roy Purcell, boatman or apprentice pilot. All were from the Halifax district.

Pilots Roy Sullivan and Carl Himmelman and Apprentice Edward Renner were saved. How they escaped remained unknown
and doctors who attended Sullivan and Himmelman in hospital
said their stories were incoherent
but that apparently they had been hurled from their bunks or chairs
and had managed to reach deck.

NO INTERVIEWS
Visitors were barred from seeing Sullivan and Himmelman in the hospital. One was said to be suffering from shock and immersion and the other was running a rising temperature of 102.

The name of the freighter was not given, because of war-time regulations.

The tragedy was probably the worst to overtake an Atlantic coast pilot ship. Because it occurred about midnight, most of the men were believed to have been asleep below decks.

Nearly all the men—most of them were related—were married, some with large families.
They were known all over the Atlantic coast.

Cause of the ramming probably will not be explained until an investigation is completed in several days. It was believed, though, that the pilot vessel, an auxiliary schooner, had drawn close to the incoming freighter to allow her to pick up a pilot. A sudden puff of wind might have huffed her directly into the freight-er's path.

Pilot Tupper Hayes and two boatmen had cast off from the Hebridean to meet the freighter
when she crashed into the pilot vessel.

Captain John Holland, coxswain of the Dunca's Cove life-boat crew, said he had put to sea with nine men after being ordered to the disaster scene by the department of transport.

"It was a perfect night," he said, "visibility was remarkable and the sea was calm."

The lifeboat arrived on the scene to find a naval craft already engaged in the search.

"We hunted for more than two hours," said Capt. Holland, "but couldn't find even a chip of wood."
The Hebridean was one of two pilot boats which maintain in Mine Men Face Fraud Charge In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Three officials of Stadacona Rouyn Mines Limited were arraigned today on a $2,429,404 fraud charge, a fourth man was arrested in Ottawa and police said still another company official would be placed under arrest later.

The three arraigned today were President Roy Anderson, Secretary-Treasurer A. C. Trew of Ottawa, and R. P. Pappee of Montreal, a director. They appeared before Judge F. T. Enright, pleaded not guilty and were re-mandered in $20,000 bail for preliminary hearing April 4.

Superintendent Louis Jargalle
of the Quebec Provincial Police said Fred Graham, described as a 36-year-old salesman of Ottawa, had been arrested in Ottawa and would be brought here for arraignment, probably tomorrow morning, with the fifth man involved in the case.

A warrant also has been issued for the arrest of J. Barton Niver of Montreal, a Stadacona Rouyn
director, and Attorney James Crankshaw appeared in court and told Judge Enright he was represented Niver, who he said, would surrender to the police sometime today.

CANADIAN FLAG URGED BY P.-I.A.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C.
Parent-Teacher Federation today adopted a resolution urging a "distinctive Canadian flag."
Following an address by Mrs.
G. G. McCall, of Vancouver, a resolution urging the elimination of "vulgar and trashy" literature in British Columbia was also adopted.

The federation adopted a resolution urging a national campaign against Hallowe'en vandalism, and decided to ask the provincial government to continue food allowances for children of mother pensioners and children under the Workmen's Compensation Act who are attending school between 16 and 18 years of age, if they are eager and capable of continuing their education. Under present regulations such allowances end at 16.

No Early Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt said in a formal statement today that there was scant immediate prospect for a stable peace in Europe, but that information gathered abroad by Sumner Welles would be available when the time came for establishing peace.
"He (the Under-Secretary of State) has not received, nor has
he brought back to me, any peace proposals from any source," the President declared.

Death Overtakes Man in Auto

Death overtook John Thomas Gale, 54, 632 Manchester Road,
at the wheel of his car shortly before midnight, according to a report of file today at the City Police Station.
The report stated William Gale, 18, son of the deceased, was riding north on Admirals Road
when the father suddenly collapsed over the wheel. The car was stopped immediately and the son rushed his father to St.
Joseph's Hospital, where life was pronounced extinct by the house doctor.

Coroner E. C. Hart was notified and the remains were removed to Sant's Mortuary on the family's instructions, according to the report.

England, and had been a resident of this city for the last 31 years.
He is survived by the widow,
four sons, Frederick, H. Stephen, Frank and William, two daughters, Phyllis and Clarice Gale at the family residence, his father, one brother and two sisters.

The funeral will take place

officiate, and the remains will be laid to rest in Royal Oak Burial

AUSTRALIAN AIRMEN SOON IN CANADA

SYDNEY, Australia (CP, Reuters)—Air Minister J. V. Fairbairn said in a press statement today that the first contingent of Australian pilots, observers and machine-gunners having completed training under the Empire
air training scheme, will be in active service overseas before Christmas.

The first contingent of partly-trained men, he added, will go to Canada in a few months to complete their training.

The Air Minister announced that enrollment of men in the air services will be increased month
by month until it reaches 1,000 men monthly.

An Associated Press dispatch
from New York said it had been indicated by British naval sources
there that the liner Mauretania,
which passed through the Panama Canal Tuesday night, and the liner Queen Mary, which recently also left New York, would carry air cadets from Australia to Canada's western coast.

German Notes Propaganda, Says Roosevelt

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BERLIN (AP)—Sixteen documents which German authorities said were found in the archives of the Polish Foreign Office in Warsaw were handed to the press
by the Berlin Foreign Office tonight with the authorized comment that they shed "a most interesting light on the part which American policy played in bring-

President Roosevelt and Joseph
P. Kennedy and William C. Bullitt, United States ambassador to London and Paris, were named in the documents. Some of them were represented as confidential reports by the Polish ambassadors
at Washington, London and Paris, and the Polish minister at Stockholm.

Among them are what are represented as a letter by Anthony Eden, former British Foreign Secretary; a letter by the Polish general staff, and a report by the Polish commercial attache
in London on a chat with Ambassador Kennedy.

All documents were accompanied by photographic reproductions of the alleged originals.

POTOCKI REPORT

One of the papers was labelled
a confidential report by Count Jerzy Potocki, Polish ambassador
in Washington, dated November 21, 1938.

It said that Ambassador Bullitt hoped that during the ensuing two years Germany would engage in conflict with Russia, thereby giving the western powers an opportunity to get ready.

"Bullitt's reports to President Roosevelt and the State Department are always studied with attention," the alleged report to Josef Beck, Polish Foreign Minister—read.

"Bullitt spoke with the greatest vehemence and strong hatred of Germany and Chancellor Hitler," this alleged report said. "He opined that only strength applied at the close of war could in the future put an end to Germany's mad expansion. To my question
how he viewed this coming war,
he replied that the United States,
France and Britain must arm up tremendously in order to defy German power."

"To my question whether the United States would participate in such a war he (Bullitt) replied: 'Undoubtedly, yes, but only after England and France bestirred themselves first.' The attitude in the United States, he said, was so adverse to Nazism
and Hitlerism that even today
there is a psychosis among Americans similar to that before America's declaration of war on Germany in 1917."

ROOSEVELT DISCUSSED

President Roosevelt's alleged attitude and opinions figure for the first time in what was represented as a report by Potocki
dated Washington, January 12, 1939. After asserting that hatred in the United States against all forms of Fascism is growing and is being incited by Jewish propaganda which, the document said,
controls the radio, dress, films
and magazines nearly 100 per cent, the alleged Potocki report
continued:

"President Roosevelt was first
to give expression to this hatred for Fascism. He thereby pursued a twofold object: First, he

Soviet Legislature Meets

Russia Neutral Declares Molotoff

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav
Molotov tonight declared before Soviet Russia's Parliament that
"our position is neutrality in the war" and "the safeguarding of our land."

Molotov announced this policy
at the end of a review of foreign affairs in which he charged that
"the hopes of the British and French rulers to use the Soviet Union in war against Germany have been frustrated."
He asserted the conflict with Finland "was a welcome opportunity for a number of imperial-ist states to embark on war against the Soviet Union," and mentioned the United States and Italy among "other imperialist countries" besides the Allies
which sent "military aid" to Finland.

"The policy pursued by the Soviet Union," he said, "is obviously not palatable to the British and French, whose nerves are not in good order."

Molotov claimed that "during the past five months there have been many instances of Franco-British hostility toward the Soviet Union."

The Premier-Foreign Commis-sar spoke at a joint session of the two houses of the Supreme Soviet, the Russian Legislature, which today began a session to ratify the peace treaty with Finland, create a "Karelian-Finnish Union Republic" in territory gained from Finland, and to hear the 1940 budget.

"Soviet-German relations," Molotov declared at the outset,
"were firmly proved in the Polish campaign."

48,645 RUSSIAN DEAD

He said Russian losses in the conflict were 48,645 killed and 158,863 wounded, while Finnish losses were much greater.

He stated Finnish losses were no less than 60,000 killed and 250, 000 wounded.

(At the end of the conflict,
Finland's Field Marshal Baron Mannerheim estimated the Russian dead at 200,000 and the Finnish dead at 15,000. Scandinavian military observers, at the same time estimated Russian casualties were approximately 250,000 dead and 250,000 wounded,
and Finnish casualties were 30,

Josef Stalin, War Commissar Klementi E. Voroshiloff and wanted to distract the attention of the American public from difficult and complicated domestic problems, especially between capital and labor.

"Second, by conjuring up a war psychosis and conjuring up danger in Europe, he wanted to persuade the American people to accept America's enormous preparedness program, a program which goes beyond defence needs
... the President soon succeeded
... in creating interest in his foreign policy. The way chosen was quite simple: On the one hand the danger of war hanging over the world on account of Chancellor Hitler had to set in a scene cleverly.

"On the other hand a ghost had to be invented which would

Molotov were given an ovation
at the beginning of the legislative session.

Molotov charged that "inimical" action of Britain and France had been damaging to relations with Russia.

"Britain stopped our ships going to Vladivostok," while France
"organized police raids on our trade representatives in Paris,"
he said.

Molotov's audience laughed
when, in his review of the Russian-Finnish conflict, he said aid was sent to Finland even by the peace-loving United States.

"The war in Finland was not simply a clash with Finnish troops," he said. "The matter was more complicated. We were fighting not merely Finnish troops but the combined forces of the im-perialists of a number of countries, including Britain and France."

"Chamberlain in the House of Commons on March 19 expressed malicious regret at the failure to prevent the end of the Finnish war, thus turning his 'peace-loving' imperialist soul inside out to the whole world."

"Chamberlain, without the least embarrassment, related that preparations for the dispatch of an expeditionary force comprising 100,000 men were completed March 2—two months earlier than the date set by Mannerheim."

Molotov asserted that one-fifth of Sweden's air force was placed at the disposal of Finland.

"Military aid to Finland did not come only from the Allies," he went on, "but also from certain other imperialist countries, including Italy and even the United States."

"Despite all these efforts the strength and determination of the Red army converted the war into a glorious victory."

Of the other European conflict
he said "the war in the west has been confined to casual clashes mainly on the sea and in the air."

"It is known that Germany's effort to negotiate peace was brushed aside by Britain and France."

"It was said it was to fulfill their obligation toward Poland
that Britain and France declared war."

"Now it is perfectly clear how far removed the 'real aims of these powers were from defending the interests of Poland. Their aims are complete defeat and dismemberment of Germany."

jabber about an attack by totalitarian states on the United States.

"The Munich Pact came in very handy for Roosevelt in that connection. He represented it as capitulation by France and England to pugnacious German millitarism."

Potocki then expressed the opinion that the Jews were using President Roosevelt to bring about a world war.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt said that propaganda from Europe should be taken with a grain of salt, when asked to comment today on documents published in Berlin purporting to show the "part which American policy played in bring-

Soviet Ships Held By Allies; Nazis Watched

LONDON (CP)—Great Britain
placed Allied relations with Soviet Russia in fresh prominence
today by announcing she is turning over to French authorities
two Russian freighters intercepted in the Far East en route to Vladivostok on suspicion of carrying contraband.

Officially the two merchantmen, the 2,492-ton Selenga and the 3,972-ton Vladimir Mayakovsky, are to be taken from Hongkong "for administrative reasons," authorities asserting the French navy is better able to continue contraband examination
because of "more bases in the Pacific." Presumably they are going to Hanoi or some other French Indo-China port. The Selenga's cargo is tin, antimony
and wolfram, and the Vladimir Mayakovsky was reported laden with copper from the United States and more metal from Mexico.

The development, coming as a time when Allied naval men gave close attention to reports that some 20 German freighters were preparing to try to dash from the Netherlands East Indies to Vladivostok with cargoes meant for Germany, was set against this background:

1. Russian Ambassador Ivan
Malsky this week has been discussing the detention of the freighters at Hongkong with British authorities.

2. The British authorities are turning over the vessels to France, whose relations with Russia have been made more difficult with the request that the Soviet ambassador in Paris be recalled as persona non grata, a request Moscow has accepted.

DISCUSSED BY COUNCIL

3. Diplomatic quarters expressed the view that Allied relations with Russia were discussed
lengthily in yesterday's meeting
of the Supreme War Council in London. Although there was nothing definite on this angle, officially, some circles felt the Allies agreed to a firmer attitude toward Russia, including a systematic campaign to make Russia aware of "penalties" attached to a friendship with Germany.

One form of penalty, it was asserted, would be the stoppage of war materials shipped across the Pacific to Vladivostok, and intended ultimately for the German war machine. The Allies believe such materials reach Germany from Vladivostok by the Trans-Siberian rail route.

CARGOES LOADED

AMSTERDAM (AP)—At least 20 German merchantmen laid up in Netherlands East Indies ports
since the outbreak of war have started loading cargo and making other preparations to sail.
Their plans are being kept secret, but speculation is rife in the East Indies that they will attempt to run the Allied blockade and land their cargoes at Vladivostok for transport through Soviet Russia.

Germans were reported today
to have made large purchases of rubber, copra, palm oil and other raw materials.

British Squadron Placed for Test With Nazi Fleet

PARIS (CP-Havas)—Crediting his information to Copenhagen sources, Henry Bidou, military writer for L'Intransigeant, reported today that a fleet of German destroyers is en route to give battle to British naval units lying in wait off the Norwegian coast for German freighters.

Bidou, emphasizing Germany's dependency on Scandinavian ore, said Berlin is alarmed by the British blockade along the Norwegian coast. Two German freighters already have been torpedoed, he pointed out, and another ran aground and was wrecked while attempting to hug the coast.

"Information from Copenhagen says the German admiralty has sent destroyers to clear these dangerous waters," he added. "Under these conditions a meeting in force between the advance units of the high seas fleets seems inevitable."

WISH TO SIGHT THEM

LONDON (CP)—Danish reports of German fleet movements in the Skagerrak, which divides Denmark and Norway, lack confirmation here, but naval authorities expressed hope they are true. "There is nothing we should like to see more than the German fleet emerging from cover," a naval authority declared.

He added there had been occasional German patrols in the Skagerrak, but nothing on a large scale.

VICTORIES FOR SUBMARINES

LONDON (CP)—Official credit for the sinking of the German freighter Heddernheim March 22 was given today to the British submarine Ursula. The Heddernheim, first German merchantman torpedoed by a British submarine since the start of the war, went down off the north coast of Denmark. The Ursula some weeks ago sank a German cruiser at the mouth of the Elbe River.

H.M. Submarine Truant, it was revealed, was the one which stopped and sank the German ship Edmund Hugo Stinnes off the Danish coast March 23.

H.M. Submarine Unity rescued eight survivors of the Dutch trawler Protinus, bombed and sunk by a German plane.

NAZI CLAIMS

BERLIN (AP)—The German high command's communique today said:

"German fighting planes in the evening hours of March 28, under severest weather conditions, successfully attacked a British convoy in the Shetlands region.

"The convoy was dispersed. Six large merchant ships were hit and one ship caught fire. A patrol boat sank. All participating planes returned safely.

"During the day reconnaissance was increased over the North Sea, Great Britain and France. Flights extended to the Orkney and Shetland Islands. Valuable results were obtained despite hectic defence. Two reconnaissance planes failed to return from the flight against the enemy."

In amplification of the communique, DNB, official German news agency, said British pursuit planes shot down a German reconnaissance plane off Scotland's north coast while another failed to return from a flight over France.

NORWAY LOSES SHIP

LONDON (CP)—Reuters news agency reported today from Oslo that the owners of the 3,220-ton Norwegian steamship Burgos had been informed that the vessel was sunk yesterday off the English east coast. It said the crew of 32 was saved.

PLANE DRIVEN OFF

LONDON (CP)—The Aberdeen trawler Inverneil reported today that she had fought off a German plane which dropped several bombs and an aerial torpedo near here last night without scoring a direct hit. Her first mate was wounded.

(The 216-ton trawler was attacked last December 19 by a wave of Nazi planes, but escaped unharm.)

Food Reserves Increase

LONDON (CP)—British food reserves are greater than before the war as a result of rationing, government monopoly buying and efforts of the merchant fleet, the food ministry announced today.

It said about $3,300,000 was being spent weekly to peg meat, milk and flour prices against undue rises. The general cost of food has risen 16 to 17 per cent since the war began last September.

The ministry stressed co-operation with France in food buying to prevent competition in foreign markets.

Island Highway On No. 1 Route

The scheme for numbering and coloring main British Columbia Highway routes has now been completed, Hon. C. S. Leary, Minister of Public Works, announced today.

Shields bearing the distinctive numbers and colors will be posted within the next few months. The plan is to assist tourists and general auto travelers in following the main routes.

One of the plan's features is that where U.S. highways cross, the border they will be given the same number in B.C. as they have in the U.S. until they reach a main route in this province. Thus the King George VI Highway, from the border to New Westminster will be Number 99. It has been given the royal purple color.

The other highways in the system are designated as follows: No. 1 and 1A, trans-Canada and Island highways, red; No. 2, Cariboo Road, Cache Creek to Prince George, orange; No. 3, southern transprovincial highway, from Hope through to Crow's Nest, green; No. 4, Kootenay-Columbia highway, from Kingsgate to Golden, blue; No. 5, Okanagan highway, from Salmon Arm to Penticton, silver; No. 6, Nelson-Nelway highway, white; No. 7, Loughheed highway, brown; No. 16, Northern transprovincial highway, Hazelton to Alberta boundary, white.

Following registration at 10 this morning, Miss N. T. Denny, Cowichan District Guide Commissioner, gave an address of welcome and a business session followed.

Mrs. Alan Morkil, Victoria, provincial commissioner, was in the chair. Also on the platform were Mrs. A. J. Moxon, Victoria, deputy provincial commissioner; Miss Betty Frost, Vancouver, acting provincial secretary, and Miss Denny.

The appointment of delegates to the Canadian Council was left in the hands of Mrs. Morkil and Mrs. Moxon. Mrs. J. T. Nicoll, Vancouver, honorary provincial treasurer, gave the financial statement.

Miss Hilda Leighton, Victoria, was appointed provincial camp advisor, and Mrs. S. G. Smithson, Vancouver, was named provincial badge secretary.

A resolution from the Trail association was passed as follows: "That the government of British Columbia be asked to make an annual grant to the British Columbia Council of Girl Guides."

This afternoon Mrs. Morkil was scheduled to address the conference on "Guiding for the Handicapped Girl," and Col. Dopping Hesperstal, C.B.E., D.S.O., Duncan, District Commissioner of Boy Scouts, was scheduled to speak on "Rovering."

Later in the afternoon the delegates will visit Fairbridge Farm School near Duncan.

Halifax Pilots Carry on After Loss of Nine Men

By CHARLES B. LYNCH
ABOARD PILOT BOAT NAU- PHILA, OFF HALIFAX HAR- BOR (CP)—Her ensign at half mast, this study little schooner rode at anchor today keeping vigil over the spot where her sister ship, the Hebridean, went down with nine men in the darkness or early morning.

Going out into the harbor to launch another ship with her ensign at half mast, she was the freighter that collided with the Hebridean. An ugly sight in her camouflage gray, she was anchored in the inner harbor. The ship bore no signs of the accident, and the only unusual thing about her was the anti-magnetic device stretched around her entire girth.

In the schooner's spacious cabin sat a calm, blue-suited man—not too willing to talk and yet able to give a cheery greeting to this reporter when he arrived on board. He was Pilot Tupper Hayes, one of six men who escaped alive from the Hebridean.

HIS LUCK

Hayes was in the ship's dory when the Hebridean was struck—he was on his way to board the ship that was in collision with her. The fact that it was his turn for duty possibly saved his life. Pilot Hayes was taken to shore on the freighter, and two hours later was ordered to sea on this schooner.

He warned at the outset that, although he could offer coffee and cookies he couldn't say much about what had happened.

"To begin with," said Pilot Hayes, "I don't know much about it. It was pitch dark. I couldn't see a thing, so I don't know any more about how it happened than you do." He added that since an official inquiry would be held it seemed to call for silence on his part.

"The men are gone, and that's that," put in gaunt-faced Captain Bjani Kristianson, commander of the Nau-Phila. "There's nothing we can say about it. It's a terrible thing."

Strung along the wall on either side of the cabin were bunks—tiny cubbyholes of things stacked two-deep, with blankets disarranged just as the pilots had left them to go to their ships. These were bunks identical with those in which nine men were trapped aboard the Hebridean.

It was all too plain what had happened. The exist from this large cabin lay through a narrow door along a passageway, through another door and up a companionway. As the Hebridean went down like a stone, the men who were asleep when she was in collision never had a chance.

LITTLE FOOD

Pilot Hayes said he was "worried about the food situation. We put to sea so fast we didn't bring much grub—and there's no cook aboard." Captain Kristianson was brewing the coffee.

"How long will you be staying out here, captain?" he was asked. "I had no orders from those ashore except to get out here," he replied. "So I took 14 pilots aboard and here we are. We'll be here overnight, anyway, and I don't know how long after that."

SEEK KILLERS

NEW YORK (AP)—An eight-state alert for two desperate alleged triggermen of Brooklyn's Murder, Inc., described as "likely to shoot it out rather than surrender," was sent out today by District Attorney William O'Dwyer of Kings County.

The alarm called for the arrest of Louis (the Duke) Malone, an alleged lieutenant of the death syndicate, and Vito Gurino, said to be one of the gang's sharpshooters.

O'Dwyer said the two fugitives were wanted for questioning about a prison-hatched plot to assassinate Angelo Catalano, an important eye-witness in the 1937 slaying of George Rudnick, a police informer stabbed 54 times in a Brooklyn garage as a warning to other "stool pigeons."

Murder Trial Nearing Close

Prosecution evidence in the trial of Helen A. "Nellie" Anderson, charged with murder as the result of the alleged abortion death of Chiyeko Nagano, 17-year-old Duncan-Japanese girl, was completed shortly before noon in Assize Court today and an adjournment was ordered pending opening of the defence at 2.

Stuart Henderson, conducting the defence, stated his case would be completed during the afternoon. A move by him to have the case taken from the jury and dismissed, on the grounds identification of the accused had not been established, failed.

Wallis Parnell-Johnson, who also has been charged with murder as a result of the same death and who was named yesterday in the dying declaration of Miss Nagano as the father of her unborn child, returned to the witness stand today for cross-examination by Mr. Henderson after giving direct evidence for the Crown during yesterday's afternoon hearing.

In the course of his testimony, Johnson admitted writing a false statement for police at Duncan after Miss Nagano had been admitted to the hospital. In that statement Johnson had said the deceased had approached him, told him she was in trouble and stated she did not know who was to blame. He, according to the documents, had consented to an operation at Cowichan Lake and had, as a friend, driven Miss Nagano to Victoria where he understood an operation was performed. That statement, he said, was fabricated, the Cowichan Lake person imaginary, and words to the effect that he had not seen Mrs. Anderson were untrue.

He had seen the deceased while in hospital and had remonstrated with her over a statement given by her and incriminating him, Johnson said. As a result of that visit Miss Nagano had issued another statement clearing him, he stated.

The second statement preceded the dying declaration of the girl. Corp. Samuel Service, Duncan, gave evidence on interviews with the witness Johnson and statements made by him.

Following his testimony the Crown rested its case and Mr. Henderson applied for dismissal. M. B. Jackson, K.C., for the Crown, stated evidence by Johnson yesterday had clearly established the identity of the accused, Mrs. Anderson.

The adjournment was ordered and the trial resumed this afternoon. Yesterday afternoon Johnson said he met Mrs. Anderson in November last and conducted certain negotiations with her. In the middle of that month he long-distanced her from Duncan and arranged a Saturday night appointment. He had picked up Miss Nagano and driven her to Mrs. Anderson's home on King's Road. The girl had, he said, given him $40 and he had loaned her $10. He had given the $50 to Mrs. Anderson and had sent the girl into the house alone, waiting outside to drive her back to Duncan when she came out.

Two days later he had received a call from the girl and had, as a result, telephoned Mrs. Anderson, from whom he had been given certain instructions which were carried out. He had seen the girl a week later in the Duncan hospital about December 9, he stated.

U.S. Vote for Planes May Be Reduced

WASHINGTON (AP)—Release of the most advanced types of United States warplanes to the Allies gave Congressmen a talking point today in advocating a reduction in the big aircraft defence program.

The fact that both army and navy espoused the decision to give France and Britain the right-of-way in aviation purchases was seized on by some as proof that necessity no longer existed for speedy construction of a huge U.S. air armada.

Senator Bennett Clark, Democrat, Missouri, said he thought the two fighting services had "stated themselves clear out of court" on the subject of large immediate expenditures.

Barring a change of policy, he added, he and others would demand appropriation reductions to cover only the number of planes which experts estimate would be delivered to the army and navy by July 1, 1941.

The army's original $300,000,000 program was to expand the air corps to 5,500 planes by that date, but General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, said yesterday the objective might be reduced to 3,500 because Allied buying would obviate the immediate need for accumulating a reserve. He looked for a possible saving of $27,000,000 for the next year.

A majority over his nearest opponent of 133 votes was shown today for Dr. G. E. L. MacKinnon, Conservative, who as a National Government party candidate won the Kootenay East constituency in the federal election on the basis of the civilian vote.

The last outstanding poll, Mr. Murdoch, reported today and it gave 24 votes to J. H. Matthews, C.C.F. candidate; 19 for E. K. Stewart, Liberal, and 15 for Dr. MacKinnon.

Total unofficial count of the civilian vote showed: Matthews, 4,186; MacKinnon, 4,319, and Stewart, 3,983.

The race was the closest in the province.

GAPE ELECTS ROY

GRAND RIVER, Que. (CP)—Returning Officer C. E. Thibault announced today that on the basis of the civilian vote the election in Gape constituency of J. S. Roy, Independent Conservative, is indicated. Victory in Tuesday's Dominion election previously had been conceded to Maurice Brassier, the former Liberal member.

Thibault said Roy's majority was 264 votes. Brassier was elected in 1935 with a majority of more than 8,000 votes in a three-way contest. He sought re-election against Roy, a veteran campaigner, and Leopold Langlois, an Independent Liberal.

The apparent election of Roy bit into the solid Liberal bloc the province returned to the House of Commons in the general election. Sixty Liberals and three Independent Liberals won in 63 of the province's 65 parliamentary seats. Voting was deferred in three ridings until April 22 owing to the death of a candidate.

PREPARE FOR SESSION

OTTAWA (CP)—With smoke of the Dominion-election fight clearing away, the capital settled down today to preparations for the wartime session of the new Parliament. Final returns trickled in to upset elections in some constituencies and the National Government Party reverted to its former name of National Conservative.

The huge Liberal following in the Commons has been reduced from 178 to 176 on belated turn-outs.

Percy Black, Conservative who ran as a National Government candidate, gained victory over his Liberal opponent, K. J. Cochrane, in Cumberland, N.S., by a margin of one vote.

Gaspe, Que., elected an Independent Conservative.

The total seats in the Commons are 245.

Doubtful seats were Maple Creek in Saskatchewan, Jasper, Edmonton and Acadia in Alberta.

Hon. R. J. Manion, National Government Party leader, said here that party label would be dropped and National Conservative used again by those followers who sit in the next Parliament.

Dr. Manion probably will take a short holiday before making any plans about his political future. Prime Minister Mackenzie King also may take a short vacation before meeting Parliament in May.

The first cabinet session since the election was held yesterday.

'BABOON BOY' RAISED BY APES

WASHINGTON—Evidence of the authenticity of the case of the "Baboon Boy," of South Africa, who was believed stolen from his native mother as an infant and nurtured by wild baboons, has been collected by the well-known anthropologist, Dr. Raymond A. Dart, of the University of Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa, and has just been made available to other scientists.

Although many cases of "wild children," little Mowgli reported brought up by wild beasts of the jungle, have gained prominence from time to time, this "appears to be the first case of a human child adopted and reared by infra-human primates," Dr. John P. Foley Jr. of the George Washington University, said in reporting his correspondence with Dr. Dart to the scientific journal, Science.

Dr. Dart investigated the case by writing to the mental hospital where the child was said to have been taken when "trapped" about 1903 and to the police headquarters for information of his discovery. Although the mental hospital was unable to send any records because it is not known under what name he was admitted there, the police were able to locate a Constable W. J. Coetzee, who had the story of the boy's discovery from ex-Lance Sergeant C. Holten, who was a member of the patrol who found him.

The "Baboon Boy" is now a man of 49. On the farm of George W. Smith, he developed into a dependable worker "remarkably intelligent," learned to speak English, and was able to relate details of his past life among the baboons. However, he "took no account of time, or even of dawn or evening."

He had apparently lived with the baboons from infancy until he was about 12 or 14 years old.

Gen. Gamelin Sees C.A.S.F. Units At Training

ALDERSHOT (CP)—Combat units of the First Division of the Canadian Active Service Force
were inspected at field ma-noeuvers under wartime conditions and on the parade square
today by General Gamelin, commander-in-chief of the Allied armies, and General Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the Imperial General Staff.

To the martial swing of such airs as the "Maple Leaf" and
"The British Grenadiers," they reviewed the First and Second Field Regiments of the Royal Canadian Artillery and the Royal 22nd Regiment on the drill square.
They also plodded over a wooded hillside that had been converted into a veritable no-man's land by machine gun fire and the Toronto Scottish.

The French general spoke in his native tongue to the French-Canadians of the Royal 22nd and left with them a message for the whole division.

"When finally you leave France to return to your homes," he said into a microphone that boomed his voice over the broad parade ground, "you will leave as men who have assured freedom and peace to the whole world."

Major-General A. G. L. Mc-Naughton, commander of the C.A.S.F., greeted the distinguished military leaders and divisional headquarters. He was flanked by Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom, and Major-General H. D. G. Crerar, senior officer of Canadian military headquarters in London.

SAW TRENCH DIGGING

After he had presented members of his staff, motorcars carried the official party through the far-flung encampment. The visitors saw the Canadians on route marches, deploying through fields in training exercises, and digging trenches on the plains.

A group of small boys on the roadside, recognizing the French general and the British general
as they drove by, snapped smartly to salute.

As they reached the drill ground of the artillery units, the battle flag of the C.A.S.F. senior formation, honoring Canada, Britain and France side by side, was broken from the staff at the reviewing base. General Gamelin raised his eyes to inspect the Union Jack, maple leaves and fleur-de-lis, flown in his honor.

After the artillery brass band had played a general salute, the compact French general and the massive British chief of staff,
who dwarfed him and all others,
walked between the ranks to inspect the Canadians. Then the field regiments, with Brigadier
J. C. Stewart at their head, swung past the reviewing base in troop formation as the visiting generals took the salute.

Russia's Box Score for 27 Wars

Victory in Finland ends the latest of 27 major wars fought by Russians since Prince Oleg of Kiev marched down the steppes on Constantinople in the year 907. Solid lines on map indicates predominance of victorious campaigns for Russians, while dotted lines show losses or, as in Napoleonic war, a draw. Current 14-week campaign took Russia twice as long to conquer Karelia as it did to seize the whole of Finland in 1808.

Teachers Ask More Pension Aid

VANCOUVER (CP)—Recommendation that the British Columbia government, through the Department of Education, assume the role of employees of all teachers in the province for the purposes of the Teachers' Pensions Act was adopted at the concluding session of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation convention here.

Under the proposed arrangement, the government could contribute directly to the teachers' pension fund the total amount necessary for the provision of the employer's contribution on behalf of all teachers.

The resolution added that if school boards were called upon,
even indirectly, to bear any portion of the employer's contribution, provision should be made to guard against this being passed on to teachers in the form of salary reduction.

The convention recommended
further:

That war service—past, present and future—be counted as teaching service in computing
the service pension;

That, as far as possible, the pensions now in force not be reduced;

That until future valuations
show the possibility of change,
the present retiring ages of 60
years for women and 65 years
for men be maintained.

It was suggested that in any new act careful consideration be given to provisions for medical examination and re-examination of applicants for disability pension, and that approval of the teachers' pension board be obtained by any disabled pensioner wishing to take up any other work as a paid employee.

Relations Improve, Craigie Tells Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Sir Robert Craigie, British ambassador to Japan, predicts an improvement in relations between Great Britain and Japan.

The two nations, he said in a speech, "ultimately are striving for the same objective, namely,
a lasting peace and preservation of our institutions from extraneous, subversive influences."

At the same time, he announced that he and Lady Craigie would leave in mid-April for a 2½-month trip to the United States on a "private holiday."

The ambassador's distinguished audience at a luncheon
of the Japan-British Society included Prince Chichibu, Princess Chichibu and Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita.

"Bearing in mind the declared intentions of the Japanese government and the measure of success already achieved," Sir Robert said, "I have a definite feeling of confidence in the future of British-Japanese relations."

He said there was "room for satisfaction in the thought that the innate good sense of our two nations . . . has prevented antagonisms of the moment from hardening into deep-seated resentment or permanent estrangement."

MISREPRESENTATION

"It would be idle to deny that there have been serious divergencies of national policy and outlook," Sir Robert continued,
"but what has struck me most
is the extent to which the real differences have been overlaid by a mass of misunderstanding, misrepresentation and, all too often,
fostered by the unwelcome attentions of interested third parties."

"Already there is growing in each country appreciation of the extent to which the actions of the other have been vilified and misrepresented."

The ambassador listed reverence for the throne, religious tolerance and respect for old traditions and customs as attributes Great Britain and Japan have in common.

"Japan and Britain are two maritime powers on the fringe of continents and vitally concerned in events on those continents," he noted also.

"It is, surely, not beyond the powers of constructive statesmanship to bring the aims of their national policies into full harmony."

Opus On Mr. King

IT IS BEING SUGGESTED, AND NOT without some reason, that the next Parliament at Ottawa will be a weak one; firstly, because of the government's overwhelming majority; secondly, because the ablest members of the Conservative opposition fell by the wayside last Tuesday.

Apprehension on this score might be very real if the man who will more or less control the majority in the Parliament were not Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Under an untiring leader in charge of a large following with little or no experience of public life, such numbers might be altogether too plastic for the public good. But the present head of the government has directed the affairs of this country ever since 1921, with the exception, of course, of a brief interlude in 1926 and the five years of Conservative rule under Mr. Bennett—the mistakes of which five years he has corrected since 1935. Nor is it too much to say of the Prime Minister that he is about as familiar with the Canadian scene in all its aspects, the people and their ideals and hopes, as any Canadian who has ever held the high office in which he has just been confirmed.

And while it still should be admitted that a stronger opposition would be more useful to the government and the government's program to say nothing of the preparations it must necessarily consider in anticipation of the eventual peace—than the weak and inexperienced following that will sit to the left of Mr. Speaker, it must be remembered that it was the will of the Canadian people that Mr. King and his colleagues should have a clear and unmistakable mandate to get on with the business to which Parliament had committed Canada. Practically 2,000,000 out of the 3,726,000 voters who went to the polls on Tuesday knew what they wanted and marked their ballots in favor of a government with whose record they were familiar. Who is to say, moreover, that the extremists in which the Conservative party now finds itself will not develop new material from which another Borden, if not a Sir John A. Macdonald, may emerge? Events usually produce the man.

In the meantime, it is the privilege and duty of the major opposition party in Parliament to conduct itself as to reflect credit on its meagre following; for Mr. Mackenzie King's record contains nothing which might suggest in the slightest particular that he would condone the abuse of power. The Canadian people gave him what he asked for; they will expect their trust to be respected.

Unity Pledged

YESTERDAY'S DECISION REACHED BY the Allied Supreme War Council is significant for two points on which it would seem to place particular emphasis. One is that it constitutes the final and irrevocable reply to persistent attempts to sow discord between Great Britain and France. The other is that its undertaking to do everything in co-operation will mean the avoidance of conflict of view when the statement of the two empires sit down at the peace conference table together. The following extract from the British government's official statement from Downing Street is self-explanatory and worth noting:

"The government of the French Republic and His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland mutually undertake that during the present war they will neither negotiate nor conclude an armistice or treaty of peace except by mutual agreement.

"They undertake not to discuss peace terms before reaching complete agreement on the conditions necessary to ensure to each of them an effective and lasting guarantee of their security.

"Finally they undertake to maintain after the conclusion of peace a community of action in all spheres for so long as may be necessary to safeguard their security and to effect the reconstruction, with the assistance of other nations, of an international order which will ensure the liberty of peoples, respect for law and the maintenance of peace in Europe."

When the governments of the rest of the nations of the world have digested the meaning and implications of the foregoing they will not fail to realize that everything for which the British and French empires stand, everything they possess which is considered necessary to employ, is now heavily arrayed against Hitlerism and all it connotes. But it means more than this; it suggests to all nations having similar views as to how brutal aggression should be dealt with that such contributions toward reconstruction after the war as they may feel inclined to make will be warmly welcomed.

As the Daily Mail puts it: "The Allies have no intention of imposing their will upon Europe when the war is over; they must and will co-operate in reconstruction, but their unity will not be exclusive; other nations will be invited to assist in evolving a new order." In this interpretation of the declaration of the Allied Supreme War Council, incidentally, would appear to be a peace aim of which a free Germany should quickly avail herself when dictatorship has ceased. For, if it means anything at all, it means that the new Europe will be built upon a democratic foundation.

U.S. Fighting Aircraft

OUR NEIGHBOR'S DECISION TO PERMIT the export to Great Britain and France of the latest products of her airplane factories is good business for the United States and helpful to the Allies. The machines in question will be tested in actual combat—vastly different from any other type of test—and their behavior will be duly noted by seller and buyer alike. Such defects as may develop, whether in design or construction, can then be remedied in future models. To have refused to release them, of course, would have been the utmost folly. There is little or no prospect that the United States will have a war on its hands for many a year—if at all. Fighting planes now being turned out will be more or less obsolete before the end of the year. And if in the unexpected event of our neighbor throwing in her lot with the Allies, in Europe or elsewhere, output of this and every other type of war paraphernalia would probably be on the basis of a general pool of production for mutual assistance.

Automobile Accidents

ACCORDING TO FIGURES JUST MADE public by the Travelers' Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., 32,100 persons were killed in automobile accidents on the highways of the United States last year. It has discovered that most of them were caused by accidents which ordinary care might have avoided.

The company also found that in the majority of fatalities the usual alibis of drivers had no basis whatever. The weather was clear in 86.7 per cent of the cases and the pavement dry in 79.6 per cent. Of the drivers involved, 95.7 per cent had more than a year's experience; 93.4 per cent were men. Nine-tenths per cent of the cars involved were in good condition, and 94.5 per cent were driving on straight open stretches when tragedy struck.

Drivers cannot blame accidents on nature or on the service station man who forgot to attend to the brakes. They must face the responsibilities that fall upon them when they take the wheels of high-powered machines.

It Was a Sweep, Too

FEDERAL CONSERVATIVE LEADERS and organizers ever since the last war have made predictions of a clean sweep just before election day. Just to keep the record up to date, therefore, we set down here what Dr. Manion said on two occasions during the recent campaign:

Port Arthur, Feb. 26, 1940: "It appears there is a very strong fear that we are going to win this election hands down."

Ottawa, March 20, 1940: "If we don't sweep the country on Tuesday then signs don't mean anything. Watch that so-called solid Quebec bloc break. Yes, the indications are for a sweep. From coast to coast at more than 50 meetings there has been magnificent enthusiasm. I am delighted."

All of which goes to show that they were right when we said that there are three things in life on which it is unwise to bet: Horses, the weather, and political elections.

Notes

A sailor in a letter denies that they work long hours in the navy. Just the regulation 60-minute ones.

After looking long and earnestly at a seed catalogue cover this morning, the office skeptic said, "It's a lie."

A new island emerges from the sea off the south coast of Formosa. We trust Tokyo has been informed. Its pacification, of course, must begin at once.

A Berlin cable says Goering stoutly denies that the Reich's economy is dangerously strained. And Hermann comes from a long line of stout deniers.

Mr. R. J. Deachman was defeated by 29 votes in Huron North. For years before he entered the House at the last election he was widely known for his reports on trade and tariffs. He was a leader of low tariff opinion.

His defeat was probably due to the fact that he was a "fellow from the big city" running in a farming district against a country boy.

Rival Air Forces

Time magazine has printed an estimate of belligerent airplanes which works out thus:

Great Britain	17,475
France	5,550
Total Allies	23,025
Germany	22,550
Allied superiority	475

Britain officially has claimed that the Allies are producing more planes per month than Germany. The estimate in Time suggests that they also have more planes in their possession. An analysis of the Time's figures, which give the number of heavy and medium bombardment planes, pursuit planes, two-engine fighters, attack and light bombardment planes, observation and patrol planes, training planes and miscellaneous planes, adds greatly to the superiority of the Allies. Thus, the German figures include 4,500 training planes to the Allies 3,625. This may be said to increase the superiority of Allied war planes by the difference of 875.

South of the Border

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

THE NEW DEAL has paused in its tracks, baffled. Its enemies say it has failed. Its friends say it cannot have failed since, like Christianity, it has never been really tried.

For the moment the war distracts public attention and provides a temporary economic relief through munition orders and through rearmament at home. But the basic issue remains, unsettled, piling up every day for final decision, becoming more formidable all the time. The United States, everyone agrees, must go on with the New Deal, with more and more government in the lives of its people or it must withdraw back into the old ways. But it finds it cannot withdraw and it is unwilling to go ahead. That is why every discussion of American policy ends today in a question mark.

That also is why Washington today lacks that fine enthusiasm visible there a year ago, when the New Deal thought it was going ahead, when the New Dealers thought they had the President converted at last to his own policy. Now they know different. The whole thing is bogging down, but that doesn't settle anything. The New Deal bogs down—or at least it fails to solve the basic economic problems of the nation—but no one has yet thought of an alternative acceptable to the nation.

WE OUGHT TO understand a little better what is happening south of the border, for in the end what happens there in an economic sense affects us almost as directly as the Americans themselves. We cannot escape it. It is dull stuff to talk about, perhaps, and much more complicated than you might think from the silly sneers of the New Deal's enemies and the hallyhoo of its friends. It is, in fact, for us in Canada at least—the most important economic experiment in history. Until you get your mind around this thing you can have no real idea of what is happening on this continent.

At the bottom of the troubled economic system of America today lies the very thing that should end its troubles—the huge accumulated savings of the people. Used, these savings, these profits from the toil of men and machines, could give America not only prosperity, but a living standard such as the world has never seen before. Unused, idle in banks, they not only fail to stimulate the economic system; they slow it down disastrously.

In a word, what the New Deal has been doing has been to borrow these savings and spend them to keep people at work. This it has done because, private business could not or would not borrow them as it always did in the past.

THE NEW DEAL worked on the theory that there was no use the government collecting a certain amount from the current income of the economic system and merely spending that. No use balancing the budget for then there was no draining off of the old pool of idle savings; no "net" contribution to the purchasing power of the people, as the economists say. By balancing the budget you would simply take from the people with one hand and give it back with the other. The New Deal went further and dipped into the old income and profits which remained idle and unspent.

Of course, there is a limit to that. The savings wouldn't last forever if you used them faster than they accumulated. There was only so much fat on the bear. However, the New Deal believed that it would not have to keep up this "net" contribution to the purchasing power of the people very long. In a few years, if enough money was spent, the people would have so much purchasing power, goods would be so widely bought and distributed that all the factories would be at work, business would be profitable, industrialists would begin to borrow the people's savings for expansion and the government could stop borrowing them. That was "pump priming."

IT HAS NOT worked out that way, as the New Deal frankly admits. What has happened is very simple, if you get down to it.

The government's "net" contribution, its deficit spending, has been of enormous assistance to business. If you lay a graph of business progress beside a graph of government deficit spending from 1933 to 1940 you will see that the two lines follow each other almost exactly. As government deficit spending has advanced, business has improved. As the government spent less, business has dropped—most dramatically when the boom of 1937 went into the depression of 1938 after the government, thinking the pump fully primed, began to economize.

But business has never recovered sufficiently to put the idle American people to work. There are about 9,000,000 employable Americans looking for jobs now and this is considered low compared with the 12,000,000 of a few years back.

IN FACT, the United States has got into the position where, if the government runs a big deficit it cuts the unemployed down to about 9,000,000. When it runs a small deficit, the unemployed army rises up to 12,000,000. A sort of perpetual see-saw, a gray region, where business is neither entirely in the black or in the red. And the important thing that has happened in Washington this last year is that the New Deal knows now and business knows that the country is not going to get out of this economic twilight zone by any policy it is following at present. The twilight will last indefinitely.

Mr. Roosevelt's ambition was to raise the national income to $80,000,000,000, or around

Elmore Philpott

TIDAL WAVE

THERE IS NO more interesting study than the way democracy works at election time. It was our greatest 19th century politician, Sir John A. Macdonald, who said that you never could tell how a horse race or an election would turn out. But that is only true from the short range point of view. You cannot tell exactly why the voters in the mass will decide to do what they do. But in almost every election there is one sort of general impulse which seems to run through the decision. This can be felt and estimated. And as one hard-boiled realist said to me years ago, the people in the mass never decide more than one thing at a time in any election.

On Tuesday the great mass of the Canadian people voted that they preferred a King government to one dominated by Dr. Manion, George Drew, and Mitch Hepburn. Especially Mitch Hepburn. One of the things which amused me most in various parts of Canada was the tacit assumption that this election was not so much one between King and Manion (to use the parlance of the unknown citizen) but rather one between King and Hepburn. Well might Dr. Manion say, as the first Roosevelt once did: Lord deliver us from our friends.

In any case the professional organizers of all the parties knew, pretty accurately how the election was going to turn out. They were wrong—inasmuch as they were wrong only in setting the exact high-water mark of the Liberal tidal wave.

I once knew a professional election appraiser who had made a specialty of rendering confidential forecasts to business houses about the probable outcome of pending elections. His technique was simple. He simply covered as much ground as possible and got as many people as possible to tell him what they thought of things. He seemed to be a friendly sort of a dub himself, and no one would dream that he was a professional political scout. But he had established an uncanny reputation for accuracy and told me some of his beliefs. His basis was simply to question the voters. That is to talk to enough of them in enough different places and classes and groups to get a sample of the whole population. But his second rule was this—and was a whole lot more important as it involved human emotions actually in motion: He put down the probable net effect of any swing that he could see in operation, measuring it as accurately as he could on the basis of actual facts, and then he added about 50 per cent to the swing for good luck. In other words, he had found that the "swing" always went much further than one might expect it to go on the basis of apparent facts.

All of which seems to add up to this: That mass decisions in a free democracy are not made as by a disciplined army. When the people move in one direction or another they move as water moves—splashing over and beyond where it is going to go when it finally comes to rest.

A HEN OF QUIET DIGNITY

From Hertford County (N.C.) Herald

The Rev. C. D. Leggett, a merchant on Highway 30 near Windsor, has a hen that will lay nowhere but in the egg box in the store. He says he never has to get up the eggs from that hen. Every day she slips in the store in a quiet, dignified way, and goes direct to the egg box and lays, then goes quietly out and never cackles.

Its 1929 figure. Then, it was believed, all workers would be at work, taxes would roll in and the budget would be balanced. But the New Deal has never got near $80,000,000,000. It got to $71,000,000,000 in the boom of 1937 after huge spending and dropped after some economy, to $68,000,000,000 last year.

For a few months the nation may produce at the rate of $80,000,000,000 a year but the people cannot consume the goods. There is an accumulation of goods on the shelves and then a business recession. If the country produces for two months at the desired rate of $80,000,000,000 it needs about two years (with business retarded) to absorb the accumulation of goods.

Clearly the present plan will not produce $80,000,000,000 and prosperity without something added. For a while this fact may be overlooked because war orders are adding something to business activity, but these will pass, and the reckoning on the morning after will be all the worse. And meanwhile the government still piles up deficits, collecting about six and a half billions this year and spending nine.

In his next article Mr. Hutchison will discuss three possible solutions open to the American government.)

FROM MAJOR JUKES

To the Editor:—The people evidently still believe the party system can give them the results they want. They can only be convinced to the contrary by study or suffering. It need not be the latter. Those who discover this never go back and help to build the New Democracy.

As we did not attack either individuals or parties but only the system, we end the campaign as we began it without rancor.

The debt problem still remains unsolved. A. H. JUKES, New Democracy Candidate, Nanaimo Riding.

ANY SPARE STAMPS?

To the Editor:—I have been in this sanatorium for some time and it gets pretty lonesome when you are unable to do anything. However, I find that collecting stamps helps me pass the time more easily.

I wonder if some of your readers will be kind enough to save me a few stamps. I certainly would appreciate it if they would send some to me.

STEPHEN BELINSKI, Froeseport Sanatorium, Kitchener, Ont.

ASTROLOGERS AND THE WEATHER

To the Editor:—Why all the expenses for meteorological reports, if an astrologer can predict the weather for a whole month as long as a fortnight ahead?

Why not give the astrologers a chance to prove the science and art of their trade by telling the people of the bourses how the shares will come out not only from April 7 to 18, but for every day? What a triumph if their predictions in both cases would stand the checking up?

WAR AND THE COLLAPSE

From London Sunday Express

As there has been a tendency toward the less sophisticated type of program since the outbreak of war, the British Broadcasting Corporation is finding it necessary to keep a closer watch than ever on "indelicacy."

The wartime programs have contained more of the broad variety of jokes than peace programs, but it was feared there has not been an increase in the number of listeners' letters complaining about this development.

Better English

1. What is wrong with this sentence? "A hero captures a romantic girl."

2. What is the correct pronunciation of "prescription"?

3. Which one of these words is misspelled? Phoenix, Prussia, Pompey.

4. What does the word "materialize" mean?

5. What is a word beginning with ja that means "a weapon of war"?

ANSWERS

War Hits Operations Of Lumber Industry

British Columbia's lumber industry, its largest source of employment, must comb the world for every possible sale during the present year, to compensate in some measure for the loss of British and other markets, in the opinion of John Humbird of Chemainus, president of Seaboard Sales and head of the great Victoria Lumber and Manufacturing Company.

With every possible market exploited to the limit, the industry cannot hope to maintain its normal output during 1940, unless the world situation changes completely, said Mr. Humbird, who has just returned from exploring the British market at first hand, in consultation with British government officials in England.

JOHN HUMBIRD

DEMAND UNCERTAIN

"Right now we do not know how much lumber Britain will buy this year," Mr. Humbird said. "Britain is managing its imports as part of its war policy and where more essential things are needed, the supply of ships for the importation of lumber is being cut down. Thus we cannot foresee, and Britain cannot tell us yet, how many lumber ships we may expect this year. There is, of course, a market in Britain for all our lumber if it could be transported, but we cannot begin to move our normal output without many more ships than those at present ordered to this coast. Last year Britain bought 964,000,000 feet of lumber here, or two-thirds of our total export. We had hoped that by the end of March we would have shipped the entire amount ordered by Britain last autumn, but it does not seem likely now that we shall complete the movement of these orders until some time in June at earliest, unless shipping conditions change.

FOR WAR PURPOSES ONLY
"It is thus quite obvious that we cannot expect to ship to Britain this year anything like last year's shipments. Britain is managing its imports so carefully in fighting the war that the use of lumber has virtually ceased over there, except for war purposes. You have to get a license to buy a piece of lumber and these licenses are not available for the ordinary repair or construction uses. This is necessary in wartime but we are a little anxious over the effect of these restraints after the war. During the war Britain will get used to utilizing lumber substitutes of various sorts and it will be necessary to sell the use of lumber over again in many places.

"Not only in Britain but in all markets we are feeling the effect of the war. Australia, our second largest market, is rigidly controlling the importation of lumber and cutting it down to a part of last year's total. Besides, freights to Australia have increased approximately four times. Thus we shall ship less to Australia than in 1939.

"The Atlantic seaboard of the United States, our third largest market, also is likely to show a contraction. The intercoastal rate from Oregon to Washington to the Atlantic coast was $14 per thousand feet at the outbreak of war. At the present this rate is $15 and on April will be advanced to $16. We are at a disadvantage in this market of about $3 per thousand in freights plus an additional $2 per thousand in duty. This makes an almost insuperable barrier, even supposing we can get ships, which we cannot count on.

"Japan, formerly a large customers, is practically out of the market, as is China. The industry here thus must search every market in the world for the chance even to sell small amounts of lumber, but I do not believe that in any one of them we can increase our sales over those of last year. It is certain that the industry must face contraction in its operations, but how long that will last, or how far it will go, must depend upon world conditions upon markets and most of all upon the supply of ships to carry our products. It is a situation over which, no matter what

Privateer Gets Values at Depth

Three or four months drifting on the bottom level, known as the 1225, at Privateer Mine, will be required before the company can make a full statement on the ore possibilities at this depth. D. S. Tait, president, told 30 shareholders at the annual meeting here last night.

Mr. Tait said that the last four rounds on the east drift had opened up a 22-foot shoot of ore running 49 ounces over 1.1 feet, which was a shade better than the grade on the 1100 level.

"I don't want you to take that as an announcement that we have hit good ore on the level because the grade may go off as we drift further," he said. "Actually we still have practically all the possibilities of the level to explore. When we think we are justified in saying anything further we will do so."

Mr. Tait explained that the shaft to the 1225 level had been sunk between the two veins showing on the 1100 level at a point which had not made ore. For this reason no results had been expected from the early drifting on the 1225. The point where the shoot has just been encountered is in the deepest part of the mine, farthest from the entrance.

NO. 2 RUNS WELL

He announced that additional work on the No. 2 vein has proved up some 9,000 tons of ore reserves, amounting to three months' mill capacity. The annual report was prepared.

Reserves in the Van Isle property were not mentioned in the annual report, he said, but 100 feet of good backs have shown on the upper level and will be developed.

In the main workings Mr. Tait said two or three areas had recently shown up with a much better grade of ore than was expected, particularly the 1105-stope where every round produced abundant free gold.

He said the Privateer property had not shown up as well as anticipated when the company purchased an 80 per cent interest last year but it has three high-grade shoots which were additional ore reserves.

Mr. Tait said this summer's program would include drifting on the 1225 level and cross-cutting on the 1000-level to intersect the No. 2 vein.

He said the company plans to keep up its search, within limits, of looking for new properties with a view to making Privateer a permanent profitable mining corporation. Surface exploration at Privateer will be intensified this summer with the assistance of Dr. H. C. Gunning.

The entire board of directors was re-elected. Besides Mr. Tait, the board includes Ray Pitre, vice-president; Louis Pedneault, Joseph Pedneault, W. S. Lane and Gordon F. MacDonell, the consulting engineer.

The dividend policy of the company, which gave 5 cents a quarter last year plus one 2-cent bonus, was approved by the meeting after Mr. Tait explained that capital reserve was being accumulated at the rate of $12,000 to $13,000 a month.

MAINTAIN DIVIDENDS

Mr. Tait was questioned whether the present dividend level would be maintained and replied that he knew of no reason why it should be varied. Since the board was as yet not certain of the effect of the Dominion government's excess profits tax on the company the board preferred not to make any decision on the next payment at present, he said, although he believed Privateer would not be penalized by the levy.

Mr. Tait noted that while published figures of the mine's production were based on $35 gold and ran around $85,000 a month the actual receipts run over $93,000 due to the 10 per cent premium on the price of gold.

INDUSTRIAL HOME TO BE IMPROVED

Improvements to the Boys' Industrial School at Coquitlam to relieve overcrowding are planned by the government.

The announcement was made following criticism of the conditions at the institution by Magistrate H. S. Wood of Vancouver, who indicated he preferred to send a young offender to Oakalla rather than to the Industrial school.

No details of the proposed improvements were made public today but it was indicated they would probably include enlarged facilities and administrative schemes for bettering the conditions of the place.

According to a Canadian Press dispatch, Magistrate Wood criticized the conditions at the home when he remanded for sentence a 17-year-old boy who pleaded guilty to burglaries in three city homes.

Mr. Wood indicated the youth would be sentenced to Oakalla prison farm, from whence he could be transferred to the New school for juvenile offenders in Burnaby municipality. He said that out of more than 100 boys who had been discharged from New Haven since its inception, only 12 had since appeared before a criminal court, whereas the results with the boys who have been discharged from the Industrial school) are not particularly satisfactory.

The magistrate said that under present conditions he did not consider it fair to send any boy to the industrial school, although he did not wish to cast any reflection on the splendid young men who were in charge, but their task was an impossible one.

"It has accommodation for 35," he said, "but at the moment there are 62 boys there with no adequate facilities, and it is impossible for the staff to expend upon each boy the proper individual effort."

"I do not think the remedy is by enlarging the building," he added, "but by using the means of probation that are available to reduce the number of those who are committed."

Boys Demonstrate Model Airplanes

Junior and senior members of the Victoria Model Airplane Club entertained members of the Rotary Club of Victoria at a father and son luncheon in the Empress Hotel, when model airplanes and gliders were demonstrated.

J. Doe, senior advisor to the Airplane Club interviewed the boys, and asked them questions on model aircraft in which they specialized.

Leighton Manning, president of the club, spoke briefly on scale models and Alan Jupp demonstrated the gas models. The engine of one of the gas models was started in order that the Rotarians might see the work of the boys in building that particular type of model.

J. White, an advisor to the club, spoke briefly on the value of model airplane building as a hobby and as an educational factor.

"As a hobby model airplane building gives a boy the opportunity to express himself and it keeps him from detrimental influences which he might meet through idleness. As an educational factor it helps him to give practical application of knowledge which he has gained through study, and helps him to apply fundamental principles of his education," said Mr. White.

Models discussed at the meeting were of the stick, cabin, indoor competition, glider and gas types. All of the models shown to the Rotarians were built by members of the Victoria Model Airplane Club.

Junior members of the club present at the meeting were: Leighton Manning (president), Sam Gagliardi, Harry Doe, Doug Collis, Jim Symes, Doug Shadbolt, Leslie Pritchard, Eric Dowell and Alan Jupp. J. Doe, J. White, R. Thompson and C. Thomas are senior advisors to the boys.

Walter Luney, president of the Victoria Rotary Club, was chairman.

Australia Welcomes Vote in Canada

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—The Sydney Morning Herald, welcoming editorially the sweeping endorsement of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's war policies at the polls, said today the Canadian election is read by the rest of the Empire as an impressive demonstration of loyalty.

The newspaper, alluding to the anti-war and pro-Soviet resolution of the New South Wales Labor conference last Sunday, said that Canada in sharp contrast to such "Communist-inspired pacifism" turned its election into "a remarkable competition of patriotism."

Party results aside, therefore, the newspaper said, the Empire sees in the election the united affirmation by a great Dominion of the justice of the Allied cause.

LONDON (CP)—The Moscow radio announced today that the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, was called into session at 2 p.m. (3 a.m. P.S.T.) The session, third in seven months, was to approve the Finnish peace treaty and possibly to hear a discussion of foreign policy.

More than 98 per cent of the voters in Russian Poland cast ballots for the official list of Communist and "nonparty" candidates for the Soviet Russian lower-house of parliament in the election last Sunday, according to a dispatch from Moscow last night.

Tass, Soviet News Agency, said 7,894,971 of the 7,966,523 registered voters went to the polls and elected a solid bloc of the officially endorsed candidates.

In the election of members of the Soviet of the Union (lower house) 7,743,210 ballots were cast for the Communist and nonparty slate, 8,132 ballots were declared invalid, and in 143,629 ballots the names of the candidates were crossed off.

Mrs. Kyrle Symons Again Heads Municipal I.O.D.E.

Mrs. Kyrle C. Symons was re-elected regent of Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., for her third term at the final session of the annual meeting yesterday in the K. of C. Hall. Other officers elected were: First vice-regent, Mrs. W. R. Hobbs; second vice-regent, Mrs. R. Shanks; secretary, Miss Jessie Knight; treasurer, Mrs. E. O. Weston; educational secretary, Mrs. F. F. Beckett; Echoes' secretary, Mrs. A. M. Pillar; organizing secretary, Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps; and standard bearer, Mrs. F. X. Russell.

The impact of the war on the activities of the I.O.D.E. was touched upon by Mrs. Symons in her presidential address. As in 1914, the members had shown themselves ready to share the burden and had rallied splendidly to the call for service, proving their loyalty to the Empire and their readiness to concentrate their efforts on providing comforts for the men who were fighting our battles, she said.

FINE WAR WORK

In the last four months the Municipal Chapter had done war work to the total value of $1,512.69, Mrs. J. L. Gates, convener of the committee, reported.

Each primary chapter has been working splendidly, "providing socks, mitts, helmets, scarves, sweaters and other comforts, as well as providing cards and cigarettes for the men of the services. Special mention was made of the Navy League Chapter's contribution to the 5th B.C. Coast Brigade, H.M.C. Naval Dockyard (Esquimalt), to Lady Tweedsmuir for mopsweepers of the North Sea, the library and educational convener and to the evacuated children (London) fund. This chapter's war work totaled $741.75, it was stated.

The splendid work being done by Mrs. Quinn among the men of the navy, and the military forts and camps was referred to by the convener, who reported that 991, 940 magazines have been distributed by Mrs. Quinn and her committee to the services; 498 packs of cards and games; 100 other games, 100 bound books to one ship and 40 to another; cigarettes, magazines and games were distributed to visiting sailors of the Commonwealth for their journey homeward; 20 ships and 22 forts are visited weekly by Mrs. Quinn, leaving bundles of 50 magazines at each place. In addition to the chapters' contributions, friends of the order had given cigarettes, books and cards valued at $81.50 for distribution by Mrs. Quinn.

All chapters had taken part in Book Week and a drive to procure libraries for the services had resulted in a total of 1,456 books being collected, more still coming in.

MEMBERS INCREASE

Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps, organizing secretary, noted a satisfactory increase in membership, 114 having joined existing chapters last year. Mrs. J. T. Jones, Echoes' secretary, presented her report, showing an increase in subscriptions. Mrs. J. W. Cashmore reported the activities of the standard bearers. Mrs. P. E. Corby gave an interesting analysis of the response made by members of the order to the call for national emergency service.

An interesting article on the work of the Women's Voluntary Service, organized in England by the Marchioness of Reading, was submitted by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Godfrey Isaacs, and read by Mrs. Curtis Sampson.

CHILD WELFARE

Child welfare was reported by Mrs. G. Mellor, including gifts to "adopted" children at the Solarium, to needy families in the Peace River, milk and clothing and other assistance to local families in need. The Municipal Chapter had paid out $381.67 for milk supplied to 10 families during the year; had given out four layettes and three partial layettes, also warm clothing to mothers and older children. By Drastic Dosing

Taking strong medicines into the stomach for colds may add to the misery by upsetting digestion. That's why 1 out of 3 Canadian mothers treat colds externally with Vicks VapoRub.

Just rubbed on throat, chest and back at bedtime, VapoRub acts on the skin like a warming poultice and—at the same time—gives off soothing medicated vapours that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages. Often by morning most of the misery of the cold is gone.

Enjoyable Tea Enriches St. John's Guild Fund

Spring flowers imparted a colorful background to the successful Easter tea held yesterday afternoon by the Ladies' Guild of St. John's Church in the hall. Mrs. E. Fulton, the president, and Miss E. Denny, the past president, received the guests, and Canon F. A. P. Chadwick was present to extend a welcome to the visitors.

The long tea tables were gay with daffodils and green and yellow candles, and were presided over by the guild members, who acted as conversers. There was a table of home cooking, convened by Mrs. Oldfield, who was assisted by Mrs. Gray, and fancywork under the direction of Mrs. Rudge.

Mrs. L. Hatchelor arranged a program for the entertainment of the guests. A group of vocal solos was sung by Mrs. G. S. McMorran, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. James McCahill. Miss Ilace Roskelley delighted the audience with her recitations. Proceeds from the affair will go to the fund in aid of the church.

Couple Get Married After 40 Years

GODERICH, Ont. (CP)—A romance of 40 years' standing had a happy ending yesterday when Thomas Sillib, 67, of Tabor, Alta., married Amanda Maedel, 63, of Goderich. Rev. D. J. Lane officiated.

Forty years ago the groom worked five miles from here, and 35 years ago he went west. He returned east on a visit only once, and that was 28 years ago.

Miss Maedel had vowed not to marry as long as she was caring for her invalid parents. She nursed her blind father for 10 years and her invalid mother for 40 years. Both are now dead.

Several weeks ago the wedding date was set, but when Sillib arrived from the west two weeks ago he found his bride-to-be convalescing in hospital after a serious operation. The wedding went ahead as scheduled, with the consent of physicians and hospital authorities.

Miss Maedel was married from her sickbed, propped up in pillows and wearing a corsage of pink roses, sweet peas and fern. Her special nurses, Mrs. Lou Maske and Miss Mary Greene, were witnesses to the ceremony.

The couple will reside in Goderich.

Organized Labor's Progress Honored

The growth of organized labor in Victoria from a small beginning in 1890 through all manner of adversity to its present strength, representing many branches of artisan workmen in this city, was fittingly commemorated last night with a dinner attended by 300 persons in the Empress Hotel ballroom.

The event was the most important social function which labor has staged here, and heading a list of distinguished guests were His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Hamber. Several speakers were heard, all of whom paid glowing tribute to the benefits of labor organization. Edwin F. Fox, president of the local council, presided.

BENEFITS TO ALL

The Lieutenant-Governor, in a moving address, paid tribute to the steady influence of the Trades and Labor Council in conducting labor negotiations and the benefits which both employer and employee had reaped.

In his own firm, the Hastings Sawmill, His Honor recalled there had never been, in its 75 years' history, any disagreement with labor, a remark that was warmly applauded.

He was sure that, on looking back, the council felt justly proud of its work and would continue to even greater accomplishments in promoting employer-employee relations.

Sound labor organizations, properly led, would not fail to bring benefits to all, and though there were times when tempers rose it was the soundness of the organization as the Trades Council were put to the test and broadmindedness and logical negotiations were most needed.

In times such as these it was gratifying to read such resolutions as that passed by the B.C.

Two government labor officials talk things over with a laborite. Left to right: F. E. Harrison, fair wage officer for western Canada, who represented the federal department of labor at the dinner; Edward A. Jamieson, president of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council and Adam Bell, deputy minister of labor.

Executive of the Trades Congress, expressing unfailing loyalty to Canada and Britain in their prosecution of the war. Such expressions had come from all corners of the Empire, he said.

At the close of his address His Honor was presented with a miniature anvil from the International Association of Machinists. The presentation was made by Mr. Fox who received the anvil from C. H. Lester, president of the machinists' local here.

ON SOUND GROUND

Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, said he thought organized labor was on sounder ground than it had been for the last 50 years.

There was no gainsaying the value of organization based on the desire to aid working men. The greatest dangers in some of such organizations was the desire for power which was too often used with a bludgeoning influence.

"We must have co-operation," he said. There are problems on both sides of the fence in labor disputes, and these must be duly weighed. Employers could not always do what they wished to do, he pointed out, adding there were, of course, instances where they would not do what they could.

He believed the best interests of labor could be advanced by arbitration and without strikes. "We are definitely against striking," he said. He thought it should be possible to settle all difficulties without strikes and their attendant difficulties.

Greetings from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada were conveyed by Percy R. Bengough, vice-president of the national body.

Labor had made progress, but undoubtedly not the progress it should have done. The fault was not with those in the movement but those out of it. Had the congress represented all workers, results would have been better, therefore it was part of the duty to see that those outside realized this.

CLAIMS OF LABOR

Organized labor claimed the right of decent living in the form of good food, good homes, good clothes and a saving wage. Until workers got all those things organized labor believed they were not getting a living.

There were thousands who were not getting these things and who should. On occasions such as this men who had given their all to give organized labor its position today should be remembered and honored. Labor was vitally concerned with the preservation of democracy and the ideals upon which it had been built, he said.

At the first international labor conclave he attended in Geneva, Mr. Bengough recalled the strength of the German trade union movement and today he said organized labor of the world was feeling the effects of the ruthless persecution which which had destroyed this movement. Because of this, organized labor realized the need of protection, and holding dear the ideals of democracy.

Labor today stood for the reduction of hours of work to 30 hours a week with the maintenance of buying power to solve unemployment. This he described as a practical suggestion for a practical solution which would "take up the slack" as far as unemployment was concerned.

"True we have had strikes," he said "but I don't know of any case where a bona fide member of our movement went out on strike just for the fun of it. It has been done only as a last resort only to improve conditions which became unbearable," he said.

To critics of the international aspect of trade unionism, Mr.

When he rose to speak Lieutenant-Governor Hamber disclosed the topic of the conversation, pictured above, between himself and Edwin F. Fox, council president, had been the merits of Yorkshire and Wiltshire hogs. The president is a strong supporter of Wiltshires but His Honor favors Yorkshires.

Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, chats informally with Percy R. Bengough, Vancouver, vice-president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

There were no charter members of the Trades Council at the dinner but two of the oldest members were Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, right, above, and Charles Banfield, King's Printer. Both Alderman Dewar and Mr. Banfield have been members since 1900.

Bengough said members in U.S. were Anglo-Saxons, the same as Canadians, and believed in the same ideals and principles of Canadians. Because of this affiliation he felt the Congress members were more loyal than if they had a smaller union. "The larger we make our movement the more perfect it becomes," he said.

The annual influx of U.S. capital into Canada could not be overlooked in this connection, he continued, adding that even in the international organization alone, without considering outside capital, there was over $600,000 a year came into Canada in the form of benefits that went out in international dues.

In the near future it was to be hoped the six hour day would become a reality, he said.

A program of varied entertainment was presented by Miss Ruth Bawtinheimer, vocalist, accompanied by Mrs. W. B. Milburn; pupils of Miss Mona Jewell; Alf Adams, comic vocalist; Miss Lois Russell, vocalist and dancer; Miss Eva Milne, Messrs. Holmes and Anderson and members of the Victoria Musicians' Union.

Undersea War Much Curtailed

"Submarine Warfare during the World War" was the topic of a lecture given by Commander G. Spicer-Simson, R.N. D.S.O., at the Christ Church Memorial Hall last night before a large audience.

Proceeds of the lecture will be donated to the local Red Cross Society.

Commander Spicer-Simson explained the methods of submarine warfare and anti-submarine warfare during the last war, and gave a brief contrast between methods used at that time and those used today.

"During the last war submarines rarely carried more than two forward torpedo tubes, whereas in the present war submarine craft carry as many as six of these tubes," the speaker said.

The speaker also described the operation of the firing of a torpedo and the ways in which it was controlled while in the water.

"Submarines in the last war were also armed with guns. The largest guns mounted on a submarine were of the 12-inch type, but they were never used as Armistice was declared before operations against the Germans were started. Submarines were also able to lay mines, and one type of undersea craft carried as many as 120 mines."

In describing the "K" class of submarine, one which used steam power, while cruising on the surface of the water, the speaker said that speeds of 27 knots were obtained from this class while surface cruising.

"Gyroscopic compasses are used in submarines as the magnetic type is practically useless. Operations in a submarine are controlled by a helmsman, signaler and engineer under directions from the captain."

Pictures taken by members of the staff of the British Admiralty were used to illustrate the lecture and close-ups of torpedoes, warships, anti-submarine work, convoys, submarines and methods of submarine warfare, were shown to the audience. Depth charges and the use of directional hydrophone for locating undersea craft were also illustrated.

The speaker also mentioned the fact that we have not lost as many merchant ships so far in this war as we did in one month of the last war.

"Germans have been known, in the Great War, to torpedo hospital ships, and then machine gun the medical staff and crew as they took to the lifeboats. We are fighting to rid the world of this mad dog—Germany."

In describing anti-submarine work, Commander Spicer-Simson told of an anti-submarine net which was lowered to a depth of 600 feet and was 120 miles long. Submarines caught in such a net were doomed. They were dealt with by destroyers and other war ships.

The letter pointed out that as there were several thousand small cars on the mainland and about 1,000 on the island a reduced rate would encourage increased use of the ferries by the owners. This would benefit the C.P.R. and the city also. At the present time the small cars, with wheel bases ranging from 84 to 92 inches, were charged the minimum rate, which was for cars with 115 inch wheel bases. Three small cars took up the same space as two larger ones, it was stressed.

Commissioner G. I. Warren gave a resume of his trip to prairie and eastern Canada cities this month in the interests of Victoria's tourist trade. He met officials of travel agencies in Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and Winnipeg and made arrangements with D. Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian Tourist Bureau, to come to Victoria around April 12 to speak to the bureau and other local organizations.

Mr. Warren reported a C.P.R. official showed him where the company had spent $8,000 in advertising Victoria in big eastern newspapers during the year in an effort to draw travel to the coast.

The holy sent to people in the east by the Bureau each Christmas was commented on, Mr. Warren said. It was certainly appreciated by all.

The commissioner said that the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau's annual report was very favorably commented on in the east and that the local bureau had won the name of being the finest tourist promotion bureau in Canada.

A bulletin from the Evergreen Playground Association, of which Victoria is a member, outlined the immense newspaper advertising campaign the association was launching to attract tourists to the Pacific northwest.

Canada's Officers Train at Kingston's New School

the "ship"—a building at R.M.C.—seems to roll. Known as "sheer legs," the block and tackle arrangement at centre is used for moving heavy guns aboard ship. Petty Officer C. E. Sweet, right, pipes the colors on bosun's pipe his family has had for years. Commander W. B. L. Holmes, formerly of Victoria, is in charge of the school.

YOUNG CANADA DRIVES VOTERS TO THE POLLS—Dominion election day weather shone bright and clear throughout most of Canada, March 26, but one of the lightest rural votes in years was expected in parts of Ontario and Quebec where huge snowdrifts barred residents from polling booths. Many came to vote by foot and on sleigh. Here are the Keiffer children enjoying the outing while taking voters in their family to Edgley. On the way they picked up neighbors. Snow was deepest in the Laurentian area of Quebec and the southern part of Ontario. Sideroads were blocked completely in drifts as high as 10 feet. Northern Alberta roads were deep in snow, but other districts had open roads. Flowers bloomed in Victoria.

ARABS AND JEWS SERVE TOGETHER FOR ONE CAUSE—Arab and Jewish recruits, side by side, receive rifle drill instructions from a British non-commissioned officer at a training depot in Palestine. Officially known as Palestinians, these Arabs and Jews have formed an auxiliary military pioneer corps in which they train together for transport and other duties in any part of the world. For the first time in history they have forgotten all racial and political differences and have volunteered in large numbers for service with the British army in Palestine. This is the first picture to show them side by side, united for one cause. The first section of this corps has already arrived in France.

NEW HOME FOR BANFF SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS—The Banff School of Fine Arts has a new home which is as modern as the splendid work done by the school. The new auditorium, which was officially opened in the presence of educational and other Alberta leaders, will be the scene of the eighth annual session of the school, from August 1 to 31. This $50,000 building is made of native Rundle stone and is of the chalet design which harmonizes so well with the surroundings. The theatre has a seating capacity of 700 and a modern stage fitted with the finest lighting equipment and there are dressing rooms, music room, work rooms and other meeting rooms for small groups. The building is truly a co-operative effort. The Parks Department deeded two lots worth $10,000 to the Banff School Board and supplied plans and specifications free of charge; the Sir Edward Beatty donation of $2,500 to the Department of Extension of the University of Alberta made possible the furnishing and equipment of the stage and theatre.

FRIENDS NO LONGER—Although Mohandas K. (Mahatma) Gandhi is laughing at the joke of Subhas Chandra Bose at the last all-India Nationalist Congress, he would hardly be in the same mood at the present congress, probably the most momentous of its kind in India's modern history. Now Bose is calling Gandhi "weak-kneed in the way he abandoned the struggle for independence because Britain is at war." Bose, former congress president and leader of the anti-compromise bloc, asks India's complete independence from England.

POLISH EAGLE STILL FLIES—The Polish eagle, downed when the Nazi blitzkrieg blasted Poland, rises like a Phoenix from the ashes of disaster to fly again. Above a British (left) and a Polish aviator about to hoist the Polish flag over an R.A.F. station in England, where the Polish Air Force is reorganizing to fight with the Allies.

Irish Riot, Try to Fire Prison

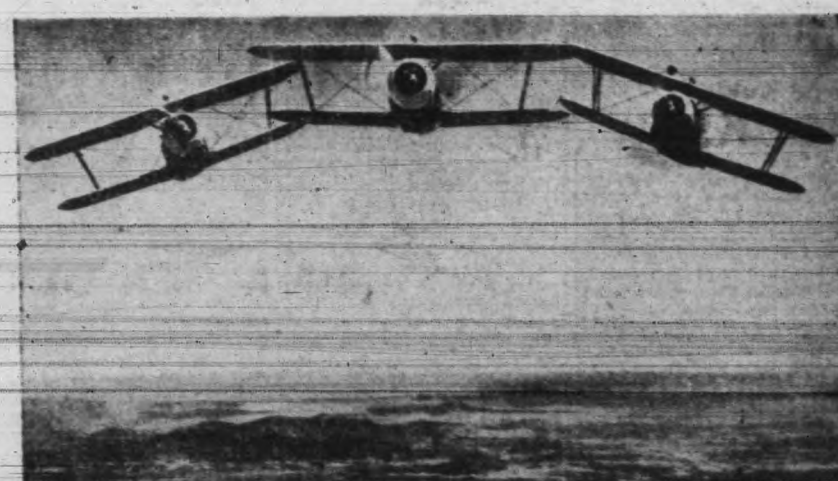

Irish Republican Army prisoners set fire to their cell block in Dartmoor Prison, Princetown, England, as they bound and gagged their warders and ran riot within the walls. The penitentiary, England's toughest, is run by a skeleton guard staff on Saturdays. Here is the prison, photographed from the air in 1932, when convicts last rebelled. Acme telephoto.

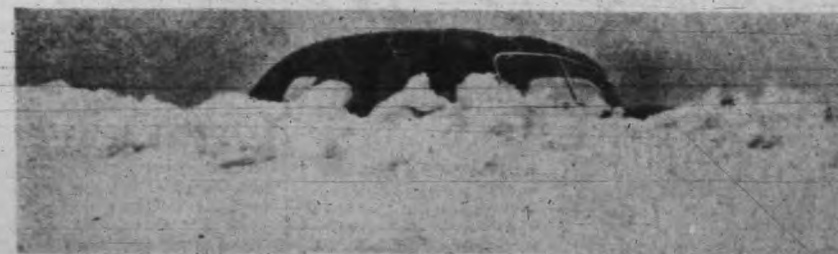

SHE KEPT THE SECRET—Mrs. J. C. Townley, wife of the captain who sailed the Queen Elizabeth secretly to New York and then left on another secret voyage as captain of the Queen Mary, is shown reading a cable from her husband. She was one of the few who knew that the Queen Elizabeth was on her way to New York, and she kept the news to herself despite her anxiety.

THE PRESS GOES ESTHETIC WITH SCENTED 'ADS'—Something new in advertising—a perfumed advertisement—made its appearance in a St. Louis newspaper last week. The "ad" bore the aroma of the product advertised, a brand of perfume. And here is how it was done: At left you see a pressman pouring scented ink into the press fountain on which the "a" was printed. At right, a young lady takes a sniff of the ad and decides she likes the aroma. We shudder to think of the consequences should the cheese manufacturers decide to follow the perfumer's example.

U.S. PILOTS TRY TACTICS BRITISH FIND EFFECTIVE—Carrying "razzle-dazzle" from the football field to the skies, these three U.S. navy Grumman fighting pursuit planes are flying in a tight formation which requires expert and unremitting control. The wing tips seem to overlap. Tight formations like this are coming increasingly into favor among fighting air forces. British pilots have found wing-to-wing tactics effective in combat with German planes.

MOTORISTS ARE SNOWBOUND—Motorists as well as train passengers were victims of the elements in Ontario, March 25. Their cars helpless in drifts blocking the highways, 11 people were given refuge at the Plaxton farm in Pickering township near Green Hill. At top, a hapless motorist prepares to abandon his almost submerged car near Maple. The plight of rural voters is illustrated at bottom. The cars belong to voters in the Oakville area, who were unable to reach their polling booth at Appleby school.

while he sprawled in half a dozen meads. Then he conferred with Frank Calder, the league president, and the other official on the ice, linesman Donie McFadden.

Every player who had come over the boards—there were 17—drew a $25 fine. Abel and Marker got misconduct sentences, and Horner, for coming from the penalty bench where he had been serving a tripping term, got a $25 fine, another minor penalty and his second-misconduct penalty of the night.

Coach Dick Irvin of Toronto said: "We were lucky that we didn't come out of that thing with a lot of serious injuries that would have put a tremendous handicap on us for the finals. The only decent thing that can be said about the free-for-all was the fact that no player swung a stick. They dropped their sticks and gauntlets and fought with bare fists."

"I am sincerely sorry that this happened," Jim Norris Jr., son of the Red Wings' owner, told manager Conny Smythe of the Maple Leafs. "It happened in the heat of battle."

"I am sorry that such an ending should have come to any series in the National League," Smythe said.

The only players injured all night were Cecil Dillon of Detroit who suffered twisted ligaments when boarded by Bingo Kampman in the first period, and Marker, whose neck and shoulders stiffened after the game. Marker said he got the injury in a wrestling match with Capt. Eddie Goodfellow of the Wings before the melee.

President Calder would not comment upon the fight. He made a brief announcement of the fines and said the Leafs would play away from home against New York Rangers or Boston Bruins in the first game of the finals Tuesday.

while he sprawled in half a dozen meads. Then he conferred with Frank Calder, the league president, and the other official on the ice, linesman Donie McFadden.

Every player who had come over the boards—there were 17—drew a $25 fine. Abel and Marker got misconduct sentences, and Horner, for coming from the penalty bench where he had been serving a tripping term, got a $25 fine, another minor penalty and his second-misconduct penalty of the night.

Coach Dick Irvin of Toronto said: "We were lucky that we didn't come out of that thing with a lot of serious injuries that would have put a tremendous handicap on us for the finals. The only decent thing that can be said about the free-for-all was the fact that no player swung a stick. They dropped their sticks and gauntlets and fought with bare fists."

"I am sincerely sorry that this happened," Jim Norris Jr., son of the Red Wings' owner, told manager Conny Smythe of the Maple Leafs. "It happened in the heat of battle."

"I am sorry that such an ending should have come to any series in the National League," Smythe said.

The only players injured all night were Cecil Dillon of Detroit who suffered twisted ligaments when boarded by Bingo Kampman in the first period, and Marker, whose neck and shoulders stiffened after the game. Marker said he got the injury in a wrestling match with Capt. Eddie Goodfellow of the Wings before the melee.

President Calder would not comment upon the fight. He made a brief announcement of the fines and said the Leafs would play away from home against New York Rangers or Boston Bruins in the first game of the finals Tuesday.

FLOODED SHIP LIMPING TO PORT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The American freighter Antinous, a two-foot fracture in a starboard bow hull plate, her number one hold full of water and down at the head, is attempting to limp into Guam, Ss. Bering reported today after "chasing the Antinous all over the ocean."

The Antinous radioed a call for help yesterday 1,500 miles of the Japanese coast. She reported a fire broke out between decks, but was controlled. Then part of her deck load went over the side and the freighter, caught in heavy weather, started taking water rapidly.

Globe Wireless said the steamers Admiral Halstead and Bering were going to the Antinous aid.

Globe received a message last night from the Bering, en route to Shanghai from San Francisco, which said in part:

"We have been chasing Ss. Antinous all over the ocean trying to get a beam on her in case she abandoned ship but we ran into a gale ourselves and had to leave to the Admiral Halstead is coming toward her, reaching Antinous tomorrow sometime (the Halstead said it expected to reach the distressed ship at 3 p.m. P.S.T. Friday) but think Admiral Halstead will proceed right on his way to Antinous is going to try to limp into Guam for repairs."

The 413-foot Antinous, registered from Mobile, Ala., is owned by the Waterman Steamship Company. She is believed to carry 33 to 35 men.

Radio Beam Tender Launched

Built to the order of the federal Department of Transport, aviation-radio branch, to maintain service between Sidney Island, where the new T.C.A. radio beam station has been established, and Sidney, the power tender Avrad was launched at 4 yesterday afternoon from the Armstrong Bros. shipyard in the Inner Harbor. The christening ceremony was performed by Mrs. Robertson, wife of J. W. A. Robertson, officer in charge of the Sidney Island beam station.

The Avrad is shown, above, with Mrs. Robertson, the sponsor. With deliberate aim the sponsor smashed the gaily-beribboned bottle across the forefoot as the cradle was released and the Avrad started down the grade to the water.

The Avrad is 30 feet long, with an eight-foot beam and a two-and-a-half-foot draft, being of slightly

British Patrols Benefit Norway

LONDON (CP)—The Times of London in an editorial on Norwegian situation, noting that Norwegian protests waited an answer here, said:

"There is full understanding and sympathy here with the difficulties of the Scandinavian states. The position of small neutrals during a struggle between greater powers is always delicate. No doubt they may consider it prudent, in order to forestall any German charge of unneutrality, to protest whenever there is the least suspicion of irregularity—even when, as in the case of the Altmark, British ships intervened in order to prevent a gross abuse of the hospitality of Norwegian territorial waters."

The newspaper stressed, however, that "the British navy is doing all in its power to safeguard the interests of neutrals, while the German navy is entirely ignoring them."

"Since the outbreak of war," it said, "no Norwegian ship has been attacked by us, and the Norwegians will know none is liable to be attacked. But Norway has lost 60 ships and the lives of 400 seamen, every one of them by German action."

PREVENT ATROCITIES

The work of the British navy and air force in waters used by Norwegian ships "is mainly directed toward preventing these atrocities," the Times continued. "The ships are there to sweep mines, sink U-boats and shoot down airplanes by which Norwegian lives are threatened."

"The truth is that the Scandinavian neutrals have everything to gain and nothing to lose by regular and efficient functioning of the British patrol of the seas. They must not, of course, depart from their neutrality to the extent of active collaboration, nor are they asked to do so."

"But they have every reason of self-interest to view the actions of British officers in the most favorable light, and while steadfastly doing their legal duty as neutrals, to refrain from straining the law to unnecessary hindrance of operations from which they benefit so greatly."

"A fair fighter in mortal combat with a foul fighter is already at a sufficient disadvantage; and there must be a limit to the further handicap he imposes on himself by deference to the susceptibilities of the spectators."

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Grain Exchange kept pace with the lower trend in the Chicago market today and losses of more than a cent were posted at times.

Closing wheat futures quotations were 1/2 to 1/4 below yesterday's finish, May at 88 1/2, July 89 1/2 to 89 3/4 and October 91 1/2 cents.

Fair investment buying boosted values fractionally at the opening but when traders learned of the weakness in southern markets selling came out.

Both good and bad weather conditions in the United States winter wheat belt unsettled Chicago prices and offerings of government loan wheat further depressed the market. Just before the close Chicago was reported 1 1/4 cents lower.

Export sales of about 200,000 bushels were not believed large enough to warrant speculative buying in the Winnipeg pit.

Demand was good for No. 3 northern wheat in the cash grain trade but only small quantities changed hands.

Flax lost about a cent on profit-taking in the coarse grain futures pit but oats and barley firmed slightly on export interest and gained fractionally. Rye was neglected.

Farmers delivered 148,000 bushels of wheat to country elevators yesterday, compared with marketings of 249,000 bushels the same day last year.

Argentine wheat shipments last week totaled 1,869,000 bushels, a decrease of 1,000,000 from the same week last year of 2,976,000.

Home Television Is Slowly Spreading

Pictures through the air! They are among the wonders of the modern world. Think of a picture of a man in England being sent through the air, so it can be printed in a newspaper over here on the same day!

That has happened many times. The radio can send a photograph across the ocean.

The "eye" of a television camera. This invention is known as an "iconoscope."

In regard to home television, things are happening more slowly. We cannot look at our radios and see scenes of battles abroad.

If the time does come when people everywhere see the battlefields by television, it may do a great deal to bring about a truce. We see pictures of fighting after a battle is over, but that is not the same thing as watching its horrors while it is going on.

In some places there is home television today. Pictures and sounds are broadcast together. That means good progress, but what the people want is to have television everywhere. The excuse given for the slow spread of this kind of broadcasting is its cost. It involves a great deal of work in the field work hard, there is no doubt that the cost can be cut down. This has been true of other great inventions. Take the automobile, for example. In 1910 a good car used to cost from $2,000 to $5,000. Today we can buy a far better car for $800 than was made by any company in 1910.

A great deal of television broadcasting has been done with the help of an instrument called "the iconoscope." It has been nicknamed "the eye of a television camera," and the work it does may be compared to the work of an eye. Rays of light strike the iconoscope, and are changed before going farther on their way. The great secret of television is a change from ordinary light rays to electric waves. The electric waves speed through space, and can go through hills or buildings. At the other end they are changed back from electric waves to light rays. It all happens in a split second. A person many miles distant sees a television speaker, and may observe him while he smiles or laughs.

At the same time the image is seen, the voice can be heard. Sound waves are turned into electric waves, and in that form they travel as fast as the waves which carry the picture.

HOROSCOPE

Saturday, March 30

This is not an important day in planetary government. The morning is unfavorable to the plans of persons in authority. In the later hours there may be common sense manifested by persons in many walks of life.

Informality among young persons will be marked at this time when there will be a definite turning point toward old-time manners and customs. Too much liberty will have put an unfortunate stamp upon many girls in college and in society. Weddings will be numerous among very young folk. Economic considerations will be ignored frequently and parents will assume extra financial burdens.

Construction will be pushed this spring when home-owning will be unusually popular. Among well educated and wisely trained young men and women there will be little lack of employment. Adult education results will be evident in household arts and in efficient use of money. Order and system will be desired by many formerly careless regarding housekeeping details.

Ambitious public projects may be delayed at this time when energy is concentrated on the war. Military training camps are costly, but necessary. Those who read the stars warn that only when a nation is strong can it be assured of freedom from aggression. The seers who long ago foretold the present war advise extreme policies in assuring safety for the greatest of democracies.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—Two boys whom I will call A and B want to marry me. A lives in a distant city and if I married him I would have to leave home, and my parents say they will disinherit me if I do. But if I marry B and stay at home they will give me a nice home. I don't know which one of these boys to take, but I believe I prefer A and, anyway, I don't want my mother to dictate to me about whom I should marry. I have always looked forward to planning a home of my own. Which one would you advise me to marry?

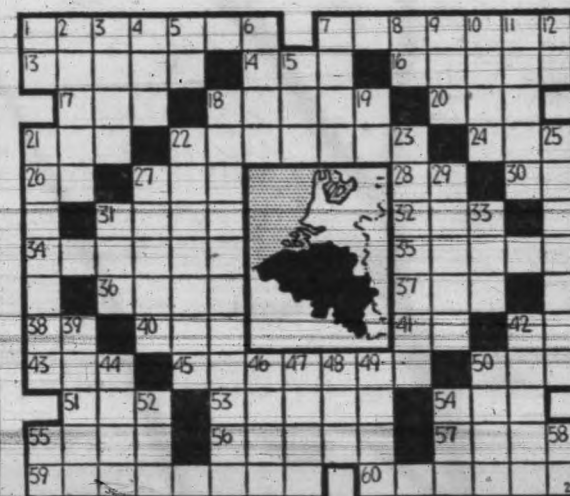

WORRIED.

Answer—Neither. When a girl doesn't know whether she loves a man or not it is a sure sign that she doesn't. When you are really in love it breaks out all over you like the measles and you don't have the slightest difficulty in diagnosing what's the matter with you.

The only reason that you think you prefer A is because your mother's unreason has antagonized you and made you put your back up. She is wrong and foolish in trying to pick out your husband for you. That is a personal matter in which every girl is entitled to gratify her own taste. Don't be bribed into marrying a man you don't love for the sake of getting a house. It is too high a price to pay. Wait until you find Mr. Right.

DOROTHY DIX.

Ice Patrol Begins

WASHINGTON (CP) — The International Ice Patrol, which safeguards North Atlantic shipping from icebergs, is facing this spring and summer its most difficult problem since the service was started.

In the past the Naval Hydrographic Office has received, through the co-operation of the Canadian government and by direct radio communications from trans-Atlantic vessels, prompt information of all ice hazards. This year most of this information will be unavailable because of the war and the patrol will have to work alone.

In previous years vessels of the ice patrol have been based at Halifax, but this year Halifax is unavailable for such service, so the vessels will use Boston and New York as bases, greatly increasing the distance between bases and the ice fields.

The General Greene, one of the coast guard cutters assigned to the patrol service this year, will perform oceanographic services temporarily at St. John, Newfoundland.

Community Chest Success Reviewed

Outstanding success of the joint Community Chest-Red Cross drive for funds in Victoria last year—the $100,000 objective was exceeded by $3,160—featured reports submitted at the annual meeting of the Chest in the Y.W.C.A. last night by the president, F. E. Winslow, and the secretary, Mrs. K. Barr.

Mr. Winslow reported briefly on the year's activity and said "At this, the third annual meeting of the Community Chest, it is hardly necessary to mention the definite place that the organization has made in the city and municipalities."

The report by Mrs. Barr enlarged upon the president's statement of the work and accomplishments of 1939.

The report of the nominating committee given by Captain W. H. Moison, chairman, was accepted as follows: Nominations to the board of nine members from the Council of Social Agencies—Mrs. W. MacAskill, Mrs. R. R. Taylor, Dr. Olga Jarline, Miss F. Fitzgibbon, J. R. Nicolson, Joseph McKenna, George McDonald, F. E. Winslow, and E. W. McMullen; 12 members from the public—Mrs. Norman Yarrow, Mrs. W. P. D. Pemberton, Mrs. Carow Martin, Miss Sara Spencer, Senator G. H. Barnard, E. F. Fox, Conway Parrott, Duncan MacBride, H. I. Mallek, Donald Campbell, W. H. Moison, and E. E. Henderson.

JOINT DRIVE

In her report Mrs. Barr pointed out that the declaration of war brought about renewed activity on the part of the Red Cross and consequently, more funds for operation were needed. The local branch of the Red Cross Society requested the Community Chest to assist them in the raising of funds and it was agreed to hold a joint campaign with an objective of $100,000, $65,000 of which would be for the Chest.

Agencies of the Community Chest were requested to cut their budgets as fine as possible in order that the amount asked of the public for 1940 should be the minimum upon which the agencies could operate and that assistance could be given the Red Cross.

"The result of the campaign is gratifying to all who shared in the work from the chairman, Duncan MacBride, who gave steady leadership and unfailing optimism, down through division chairman, majors and captains of the 664 workers who make up the rank and file of our Community Chest army," Mrs. Barr said mentioning expert guidance given by the campaign manager, Frank Paulding.

"Before the Community Chest was organized the social work of the city was financed by less than 2,000 known contributors. Last year the number of givers to the Chest numbered 6,283 and this year the figure was 8,196."

"The annual financial statement shows a gratifying result in the collection of pledges. In the 1939 campaign the amount of uncollected pledges, including cancellations necessary owing to death, sickness or unavoidable causes, was 1.79 per cent. In the 1939 campaign the amount of uncollected pledges including cancellations, stands at the end of 1939 at 2.4 per cent, but this will be reduced considerably by payments which will be made during 1940. This is an enviable record. Anything under 2 per cent is considered a low percentage of loss. Vancouver averaged about 4 per cent."

WAR PROBLEMS

It was felt that war had already brought and would continue to bring special problems which must be met either by agencies already in existence or by the forming of new agencies. It was also felt that Chest and Councils should serve as a medium for integration of plans, development of programs and for interpretation of needs. It was proposed to form a committee for the dual purpose of dealing with the war situation as it might affect the programs and services of Councils and Chests and of consulting and acting with the Canadian Welfare Council in matters of mutual interest.

The board was general in the conviction that for the duration of the war, at least, all community appeals for funds should be synchronized into not more than two campaigns within each year.

"Six months of war has shown us that the calls upon our agencies will not be less but greater during war and that the coming campaign will necessarily be for a larger amount of money," the report said.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

The financial statement submitted by the honorary treasurer, E. W. McMullen, was adopted. Revenues of the 1938-39 campaign fund totaled $82,421.37 and expenditure was $78,524.44 leaving a balance of $3,896.93 at December 31, 1939, to be carried to reserve for contingencies. Reserve for contingencies carried to the balance sheet at that date was $16,240.10.

The 1939-40 campaign expenses included $396.25 for salaries; $325.42 for printing and stationery; $215.54 for publicity; $108.10 for postage; $329.81 for sundry expense. Administrative expenses for the year ending December 31, 1939, including $1,690 for salaries; $120 for rent of office; $17.35 for telephone and telegraph; $300.25 for postage; $289.77 for printing and stationery; $346.73 for sundry expense and $44.12 for depreciation of equipment at 5 per cent.
